Global Studies Program Description

As interactions between states, societies, and cultures increase, so too do the responses to these interactions multiply. The Global Studies major allows students to explore such interactions and their outcomes. By bringing in both historical and contemporary material, the major provides students with the tools that they need in order to make sense of the world in which they live—as well as understanding how it got to be that way. Students pursuing an undergraduate degree in global studies will engage in thinking critically about how global change has (and can) come about during the course of their lifetimes. The major aims to have students focus on relevant issues to them in a way that provides intellectual flexibility. The major will offer solid training in how to use acquired knowledge to become agents of positive change on the global issues that matter most to people here, and elsewhere around the world.

The Global Studies major requires students to choose a concentration and a geographic region in which to become an expert. It connects this regional specialization to language training. Global Studies majors will choose one of three concentrations: (1) Global Development; (2) Global Peace and Conflict; or (3) Global Societies and Cultures. This will allow students to focus their studies on a specific aspect of the “global.” At the same time, those pursuing this major will choose one of five regions (Asia, Africa, Europe/Russia, The Americas or the Middle East) in which to specialize, both in terms of content and language. In doing so, students have an opportunity to become an expert in a specific region, especially as it relates to larger questions that arise from global interaction. In addition, the major requires training in critical thinking--that is how to study a particular problem in a consistent and rigorous way. Students will work with faculty and the Global Studies advisors to devise a program that best captures their interests and allows them to reach their intellectual and professional potentials.

Global Studies Learning Goals

Every major on the Berkeley campus has established learning goals for its students.

Students who complete the major in Global Studies will:

- 1) Acquire historical and geographical knowledge, and develop language skills;
- 2) Develop strong interdisciplinary training, gaining control over key concepts in the social sciences and/or the humanities (see below);
- 3) Apply an interdisciplinary approach to the study of contemporary global issues;
- 4) Demonstrate analytical skills, as well as those in critical reading and writing, through research.
- 5) Synthesize the ways in which local circumstances influence global events, and vice-versa.

Global Studies Concentrations

Global Development

This concentration area will focus on the relationship between “developed” and “developing” societies. Looking at the ways in which states around the world interact with local, regional, and global economies, the global development concentration examines the problems, processes, and prospects associated with differing levels of development across societies. Students who choose this concentration will explore the ways in which inequality between societies relates to inequality within societies.

Global Peace & Conflict

This concentration considers the relationship between peace and conflict, both among and within societies. It explores the ways in which conflict arises around the globe, and considers ways in which existing conflicts can be identified, studied, and (potentially) resolved. Students who pursue the peace and conflict concentration consider power relationships between states and supranational institutions. They explore the ways in which justice is defined in a variety of settings and how to apply such principles of justice in resolving difficult conflicts in order to achieve peaceful outcomes.

Global Societies and Cultures

This concentration considers the internal workings of various societies around the world. Explicitly comparative, students who choose this topic will engage with the ways in which local, regional, and national cultures are produced. In this sense, students who choose this concentration will consider cultural artifacts and forms, such as literature, film, the visual arts, and performance, like theatre and music. History, Philosophy, and Rhetoric also play significant parts in this concentration area, giving students an opportunity to think about the ways in which culture and society interact to form coherent national and global narratives.

When to Declare

Declarations are accepted on a rolling basis throughout the year during the spring, summer and fall semesters.

Eligibility to Declare

Students are eligible to declare when they:

1. Have a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher.
2. Have completed GLOBAL 10A with a grade of C or better (C- does not satisfy this requirement).
Note: GLOBAL 10A may be repeated only once to achieve a grade of C or better.
3. Have completed GLOBAL 45 (IAS 45) with a grade of B- or better on the first attempt. An AP score of 5 on the World History exam will satisfy this requirement (applies to AP exams taken on or before July 1, 2018).
4. Have completed one additional lower division non-language requirement.
5. Have completed an online Major Declaration Workshop.
6. Are not in their final semester of undergraduate work.

Getting Declared

When you are ready to declare, click here or click on "Declare Global Studies" on the Global Studies homepage and complete the google form.

If Global Studies is a second major, the Double Major Application must be filled out and submitted when declaring Global Studies. The Double Major forms must already be signed by the advisor of the first major.

The Double Major Application is available at:

Note for international students on F or J visas: International students declaring or changing their major must update their major on their I-20 or DS-2019 visa document. Upon approval of the major, students must contact the Berkeley International Office for their updated visa document. BIO is located at International House at 2299 Piedmont Ave.

Major Requirements

Lower-Division Requirements: Five courses (All courses must be taken for a letter grade.)

GLOBAL 10A:	Introduction to Global Studies. This must be completed with a grade of C or better prior to declaring the major. A grade of C- does not satisfy this requirement. Note: This requirement may be repeated only once to achieve a grade of C or better.
GLOBAL 10B:	Critical Issues in Global Studies.
ECON 1 or 2:	Introduction to Economics. An AP score of 4 or an IB score of 5 will satisfy the Introduction to Economics requirement.
GLOBAL 45 (IAS 45):	Survey of World History. This must be completed with a grade of B- or better on the first attempt prior to declaring the major. An AP score of 5 on the World History exam will satisfy this requirement (applies to AP exams taken on or before July 1, 2018).
STAT 2, C8, 20, 21 or W21:	Intro to Statistics; Foundations of Data Science; Intro to Probability and Statistics; Intro to Probability and Statistics for Business; Intro to Probability and Statistics for Business (online version). An AP score of 3 on the Statistics exam will satisfy the STAT 2 requirement.

Foreign Language Requirement

Global Studies majors must demonstrate proficiency in a modern language other than English by the last semester of their senior year. This language must be connected, in either the past or the present, to the student's geographic region of specialization. Proficiency is equivalent to the ability achieved in four college-level semesters (or two years). Language courses taken in high school do not satisfy this requirement. See below for details on how to fulfill the foreign language requirement.

Note: Languages accepted by the College of Letters and Science are not automatically accepted by the Global Studies faculty. Please check with an advisor for eligible languages.

How to fulfill the foreign language requirement

There are a variety of ways to fulfill the four-semester language requirement for Global Studies, depending on the individual and his or her background and ability.

Advanced Placement (AP) or International Baccalaureate (IB) test: An AP score of 5 or an International Baccalaureate (IB) score of 7 will complete this requirement. An AP score of 4 should generally place a student into the fourth-semester college level course. A score of 3 will place a student into the third-semester college level course. Documentation of AP and IB scores must be provided if they are not visible in CalCentral.

Coursework: Any combination of college courses, summer programs, or college-level study abroad programs can satisfy the language requirement. At a minimum, students must complete the fourth semester (i.e., the second semester of intermediate level) of a language with a grade of C- or better in order to fulfill the requirement. The first, second, and third semester courses may be taken on a Pass/No Pass basis.

Language courses need not be taken at UCB. Courses taken at a community college or any accredited school or university may be acceptable. Transcripts must be submitted and evaluated by an advisor. A one-semester upper-division course taken abroad in the target language may satisfy the foreign language requirement, depending on the school and program followed. For more information, see an advisor concerning language study abroad.

High school completion in a non-English language and Proficiency Tests: Students with native, advanced background or those who were educated in a non-English language through the completion of high school or the equivalent may wish to satisfy this requirement with that experience. This requires a language proficiency exam. Moreover, it limits the geographic focus within global studies, because it must be connected to language. This is not especially recommended, as it limits what students within the major can study.

Chinese, Japanese and Korean proficiency exams are administered by EALC on the Tuesday before instruction starts every semester. Check the EALC website at <http://ealc.berkeley.edu/programs/undergraduate/proficiency-exams>. Results of the exam will indicate the level of the foreign language that students are eligible to register for. In order to waive the language requirement, test results must show that the student has completed the equivalent of four semesters of language studies (end of intermediate level) or higher.

Note that EALC waitlists all students that register for language courses regardless of when registration takes place, and the department scheduler adjusts student enrollment based on the results of the placement exam during the first week of instruction.

Students planning to take a proficiency exam in a non-Asian language in order to waive the language requirement should consult with a global studies advisor. *Proficiency tests may be taken once per semester.

Upper-Division Requirements: Eight courses divided into two categories.

(All courses must be taken for a letter grade.)

1. Core Courses: (FOUR courses)

- Concentration Course: Global Studies 100D or 100P or 100S: This course provides an introduction to one of the three concentration fields and exposes students to the relevant theoretical, historical, and contemporary literature for that concentration.
- Disciplinary Courses: Choose TWO courses from the same disciplinary area for your concentration. These should be selected from the Disciplinary Course List (Appendices A1-A3 of this handbook). The courses wherever possible should speak to each other about a particular problem or approach in which you are interested.
- Critical Thinking Class/Methodology. We strongly suggest that you take your methodology class (see Appendix C) in your sophomore or very early in your junior year. This class provides a foundation for how to engage and understand a variety of sources and issues within the field of global studies. Students and faculty alike report improved student learning as a result of taking this class early in one's college career. Other approved courses can be found in Appendix C.

2. Geographic Focus: (FOUR courses)

This is where students will be able to study more deeply about a particular world region than they can in other contexts. These courses should provide students with substantive knowledge of the cultural, political, economic, and historical trajectories of the regions being studied. As a result, students MUST select courses from the following two areas:

- Global Studies 110E (Europe and Russia), 110K (Africa, North and Sub-Saharan), 110L (the Americas) 110M (Middle East and North Africa), or 110Q (Asia). Students must enroll in one of these classes, which provide a broad overview of a particular region in its modern global context. It must match the rest of the student's geographic focus.
- THREE courses that focus on the same region, which can be selected from Appendices B1-B3. These courses should also be able to converse with one another about a specific area of interest.

The student's language training MUST match up with the particular world region on which the student has decided to focus. Example: Students studying Chinese will have to focus on Asia.

Major Rules:

1. No more than 3 upper-division courses may be taken off of the UC, Berkeley campus, including courses taken at other universities, and including EAP and Study Abroad. (The one exception to this rule are courses taken through UCD).
2. No more than 3 upper-division courses may be taken from the same department.
3. A cross-listed course will not always count in the department through which a student is enrolled. It will count in what is known to be the originating department of the course. Students who intend to enroll in a cross-listed course and to apply the course toward an upper-division major requirement should see an advisor prior to enrolling.
4. Courses cannot be double-counted within the major (for example, students may not use 1 course to fulfill both a Critical Thinking course and a Geographic Focus course requirement).
5. All courses in the major must be taken for a letter grade. The one exception is foreign language: only the fourth-semester level class must be taken for a letter grade.
6. Online courses are not accepted in the major. (The one exception to this rule is STAT W21).

The Honors Program

To graduate with honors requires the completion of a written honors thesis – a research paper generally 75 pages or longer – as well as the completion of a yearlong honors course sequence: GLOBAL H102 (fall only) and GLOBAL H195 (spring only).

GLOBAL H102 provides an introduction to research methodology. To qualify for GLOBAL H102, students must have senior status and must have a grade point average of 3.6 in the major and 3.5 in all work completed at UC Berkeley. Admission to this course is by permission number following instructor approval. Students should consult the Global Studies advisors towards the end of their junior year to find out the criteria for admission for the following fall semester.

GLOBAL H195 is a thesis-writing seminar where students meet weekly to discuss their theses. To qualify for this course, students must be recommended by the GLOBAL H102 instructor, they must have a viable hypothesis for their research paper (determined in conjunction with the instructor), and they must meet the minimum honors GPA requirements. Admission to this course is by Class Entry Code.

- Please note: There is no guarantee that students who complete the honors sequence will graduate with honors. Honors recommendations are made after graduation and are based on a number of factors including (but not limited to) major GPA, overall GPA, grade received in H195, and faculty thesis advisor recommendations.

Faculty Thesis Advisor

Honors students must also enlist a Faculty Thesis Advisor with whom they will meet throughout the year to discuss the content of their theses. Potential honors students are strongly encouraged to start early in order to find a Faculty Thesis Advisor, preferably during the spring semester of their junior year, but no later than the end of September of their senior year. The completed thesis is read and evaluated by both the seminar instructor and the Faculty Thesis Advisor.

Three copies of the honors thesis must be provided by the student: one for the seminar instructor, one for the student's Faculty Thesis Advisor, and one for reference at the Global Studies Office. Sample honors thesis titles include:

- The Shuar Health Project: Reflections on the Struggles and Tensions in the Development Endeavor
- Production and Distribution in Twentieth-Century Mexican Agriculture
- Enabling Underdevelopment: Aid, Ethnicity, and Accountability in Northern Uganda
- Global Responsibility and the Syrian Refugee Crisis

Additional Information

Advisor Holds/Blocks (Service Indicators)

Advisor holds/blocks (service indicators) are visible on your CalCentral dashboard. If you are declared or intending to declare a Global Studies major and you have a hold or a block on your account, you will need to consult with an advisor (101 Stephens Hall). A hold may be placed on your account for a number of reasons that include remaining undeclared when you have reached senior status (75 units or more), an unapproved concentration or course list, and/or academic underperformance. Holds or blocks placed by the College of Letters & Science require consultation with both a Global Studies advisor and a College advisor (206 Evans Hall) in some cases.

Study Abroad

Students may fulfill up to 3 upper-division requirements with courses taken abroad. Any courses taken to fulfill the language requirement may also be counted toward the major and are not included in the 3-course limit. Students considering study abroad should carefully read the "Study Abroad Information and Course Approval Form," which is available at the Global Study Office and on the 'Student Resources' page at the website:

<http://globalstudies.berkeley.edu/resources/student-resources/>

Students must also meet with a Global Studies advisor prior to their departure to review prospective courses of study and again upon their return to have their coursework reviewed and approved. Information about overseas study is available at the Berkeley Study Abroad (BSA) office in 160 Stephens Hall, 510-642-1356, studyabroad@berkeley.edu.

Please note: Study abroad courses will generally not be pre-approved to count toward the major requirements.

Repeating Departmental Courses

The following applies to all courses in the CURRENT undergraduate programs (Asian Studies, Development Studies, Latin American Studies, Middle Eastern Studies, Peace & Conflict Studies, and Political Economy), as well as the Global Studies degree programs:

Students who earn a grade of F, D-, D, D+ or NP may repeat the course only once. Regardless of the grade the student receives for their second attempt (including F, D-, D or D+), the student may not repeat the course a third time.

Transfer Courses

No more than 3 upper-division requirements may be satisfied with courses taken at other four-year colleges or universities, including EAP and Study Abroad. They must be submitted to a Global Studies advisor for review and approval by the Faculty Committee in order to be used in the major. Courses taken to fulfill lower-division requirements or the foreign language requirement are not included in the 3-course limit. ALL courses that count for the Global Studies major must be at least three semester units or they will not be accepted for faculty review.

Senior Thesis (GLOBAL 192, 3 units)

The (optional) Senior Thesis is open to declared majors only. Students who are interested in writing a major paper (minimum 30 pages, usually 30-50 pages) or pursuing a capstone project on a topic related to their area of concentration, but who are not interested in pursuing the Global Studies Honors Program, may choose instead to write a Senior Thesis. Any student writing a Senior Thesis must do so with the support of a faculty sponsor (please see additional information about faculty sponsors below). To be eligible to write a Senior Thesis in the Global Studies major, students must have completed 60 or more units and must meet a minimum GPA of 2.0. Students are able to enroll in the course only after speaking with an advisor.

- Faculty sponsor: Students writing a Senior Thesis must enlist a faculty sponsor with whom they will meet throughout the semester to discuss the content of their thesis. Students who are considering writing a Senior Thesis are strongly encouraged to start early to find a faculty sponsor, preferably by the end of their junior year, but no later than the first semester of their senior year. Most faculty will only advise on a thesis topic that is within their subject area, and many prefer to work with students they know or have taught. The completed thesis is read, evaluated, and graded by the faculty sponsor.

Internships

Students may earn 1-4 units of GLOBAL 197 credit for participation in unpaid internships. Only internships at not-for-profit institutions or government offices will be accepted. Internships must have a faculty sponsor and require the submission of a mid-term report and a final paper. Internships are graded on a mandatory pass/not pass basis and cannot be used to fulfill major requirements. Internship forms are available in the Global Studies Office at 101 Stephens Hall.

Double Majors

All double majors must be approved by the College of Letters and Science. The completed Double Major Application Packet should be reviewed and signed by a Global Studies advisor. No more than 2 upper-division courses may be used to satisfy requirements in both majors.

Minors

Global Studies students are encouraged to enhance their undergraduate degree by completing minors in other disciplines. No more than 1 upper-division course may be used to satisfy requirements in both a major and minor.

Appendices of Courses

The courses listed below have been determined by the faculty to satisfy the requirements for Global Studies concentration and geographic focus courses. Students should nevertheless be sure to review the current syllabus of any special topics course to determine if the topic offered that semester is suitable to the requirement they hope to fulfill. A syllabus for the course during the semester in which the student is enrolled or plans to enroll must be submitted to a Global Studies advisor for faculty review and approval prior to enrollment in the course.

Please note: Pre-approval from the Global Studies faculty and advisors is required for courses with an *
